"If you or someone you know
has been hurt in an accident,
you need to know your rights."

The Dye & Russell Difference

All legal firms aren't created equal, but when deciding which firm to represent you, those distinctions matter. At Dye & Russell, personal injury law is our only focus. Good results in cases of personal injury law don't just happen. They are the product of hard work, experience, sound legal advice and outstanding client service.

Peter Dye and John Russell understand what motivates an insurance company to settle; they speak the language. Having previously worked as Insurance defence lawyers Dye & Russell understand the insurance mindset and how to communicate more effectively within the insurance world.

Just about every accident benefit claim is capable of being settled. Insurers like to settle claims and close files. The key is to try to enter into settlement negotiations at a time that best suits the interests of the client: at a time when the lawyer is satisfied that the claim is ready for settlement. Dye & Russell know this better than most firms.

When an injury or insurance claim denial negatively affects your life, or if you are confused about what to do next, call us for a free claim evaluation.

Never any fees until we settle or win your case for you!

How We Work

At Dye & Russell, our focus is on the needs of the client. We approach every client with care and concern and pursue every claim with dedication and diligence. This is hallmark to our practice.

Our firm takes a collaborative approach to client service. We ensure that all parties, the client, their families, health care providers and our outstanding legal team are fully engaged in your case. You will always be part of the process and will be kept abreast of all developments. Unlike other firms, Peter Dye or John Russell, founders of the firm, will personally oversee your case. Together we will be focused on protecting your rights and securing the best possible outcomes.

We are aggressive in our approach to obtaining the maximum compensation on our clients' behalf. We are highly respected for the level of compassion and dedication we show to our clients and their families. Through hard work and attention to detail we have earned the respect and trust of our clients, our peers and the Courts.

We offer free claim evaluations and there is no cost to you until your case is settled or won.
